

PROLOGUE

- Global crisis in biodiversity loss.
- Thousands of animal and plant species are becoming extinct every year and an estimated about half of the world's biodiversity has disappeared since the 1970s before their discovery.
- Population growth, widespread habitat destruction, invasive species, wildlife diseases, and climate change are worsening the situation.

